BARBARIANS ARE STRONG

Goodell.

The Barbarians have not so far named any definite men who are likely to be selected, but on past performances there are several players who can not be left out. Harry Elliott, of course, will occupy his usual place at center three-quarter. His ability as a player and a leader are too well known to need further comment.

OTHERS IN THE TEAM

The fullback position is not yet certain, but it is more than probable that Cate, who has played there all the season, will be in his usual place. With Elliott on the three-quarter line little Sharpe, who has played a brilliant game all the season, will be seen on the left. Sorenson and Smith will probably occupy the other two positions. For the halfback positions Davis and Donovan appear to be the logical candidates. In the forwards the Barbs have an array of talent to select from. The black and whites, however, will probably be outweighed in the scrum many pounds by the Olympics, but nevertheless the Barbs forwards are a fast lot and can be depended on to put up a big fight. Brown, Sands and Groff are probably three of the ablest front rank men in club football here. Twitchell and Fairbanks are both former California university men and their work borders on the brilliant order. Pande, Turner and Sadler are also good forwards and all are hard workers in the loose.

Both teams will finally be announced tomorrow night. Saturday week the winner of the above game will meet the Reliance team.

Corrigan, the Turf Veteran, Is a Bankrupt

Gives Up Fight and Files His Petition

[Special Dispatch to The Call]

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 16.-Edward Corrigan, veteran turfman and former 'Master of Hawthorne," is a bankrupt. Harassed by hostile legislative acts which have made practically valueless his immense racetrack holdings, estimated as worth nearly $1,000,000 only his immense racetrack holdings, estimated as worth nearly $1,000,000 only a few years ago, Corrigan has given up his wars against his turf enemies and has filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States court here.

Corrigan's total liabilities are placed at $174,100, while his assets, which include nothing but small notes and open accounts, amount to only $12,653. He has no real estate left and the notes and accounts possibly are not worth more than half of their face value.

The financial finish of the pugnactous turfman' was presaged last May, when he transferred to former Alderman Thomas Carri of Chicago his undivided three-quarter interest in the Hawthorne racetrack of that city. It was said at the time it was given in payment for a note, indorsed by Carri, which Corrigan was unable to meet, and that the veteran horseman received only $2,000 in cash for his equity, and that even this amount was more in the nature of a gift from his old friend.

Corrigan's career in the turf world allways was tempestuous. He was mixed up in a war on the Pacific coast which kept him from the San Francisco tracks, and for many years he was not allowed on the eastern tracks through a quarrel with the jockey club there. His feud with John Condon in Chicago, which was blamed for the closing of racing there in the '90s, is historic, and only when he turned over the management of his Hawthorne track to Richard Fitzgerald, who became a power in the Western jockey club, was there peace in Chicago.

Philip Honeyman, another professional, will visit him at Coronado this winter in making a trip through the southwest. For the present, however, Honeyman is more interested in Europe, Florida, Bermuda and Nassau.

Taylor thinks he will have some excellent talent to work upon in California, and says he knows several players at the Coronado club who will make experts with just a little teaching. Several other professionals will go to Florida for the winter. of the club at Coronado beach in south-
